LARGE EXPENDITURES

IMPROVEMENTS PLANNED FOR THIS YEAR ON A LIBERAL SCALE.

Changes on T., St. L. & K. C .- Judge Ricks's Decision Favorable First-Mortgage Bondholders.

In conversation chief engineers and superntendents of rolling stock of the various roads express the opinion that the earnings thus far this year have been so satisfactory, except for the last few days-which is but temporarily falling off-that a good | lights. deal will be done this summer and fall in the improving of roadbeds and increasing equipments. For the last three years little else besides maintaining the physical condition of the properties has been done, and chief engineers, under instructions from their superior officers, are making plans of what they would like to do and estimates of the cost. On the Pennsylvania, the Vanderbilt lines, the Vandalia and the Chicago & Northwestern extensive improvements have already been commenced, not only in the improving of roadbeds and increasing of equipment, but in betterments at terminals. The high officials of the Pennsylvania and the Vanderbilt lines some years ago devised a system of receiving reports as to the outlook for business at all shipping points in the several States traversed by their lines. From the reports thus received a careful estimate is made as to the volume of business the lines will handle during the year, and it is said that the numerous improvements in roadbeds, rolling stock and motive power undertaken are based on the estimates thus obtained. As already noted, the Pennsylvania Company has commenced extensive improveents on its Eastern and Western systems, and will spend more money this year than in any year of some time past. The most expensive work is in enlarging tunnels and straightening curves. On the Panhandle lines afone $1,000,000 is to be expended in such improvements. Chief Engineer Kittredge, of the Big Four, is preparing plans of improvements he would like to make this year, and will shortly submit them to President Ingalls. On the Chesapeake & Ohio improvements which were commenced last year are to be carried on, and it is expected the Baltimore & Ohio, as soon as it gets its finances in shape, will spend a good deal of money on its Eastern and Western lines. The Lake Erie & Western LOANS-Money on mortgages. C. F. people are pushing improvements on their new acquirements. The Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton will expend considerable money this year in new steel rails, cross ties and bridge improvements. The Monon has its track in excellent condition, but will do a good deal this year in ballasting with broken stone and gravel. The Indianapolis, Decatur & Western will need but little new work, General Manager Peirce having expended a good deal of money in the last two years on the roadbed. As receiver of the Toledo, St. Louis & Kansas lity, he will order some improvements to its roadbed and purchase additional equipment. All over this State and in Ohio and

> The Chicago & Northern Pacific. Stockholders of the Chicago & Northern Pacific road are trying to get the property out of the hands of the receivers. They say it should never have been put there. The court, they claim, erred when it acted on the foreclosure bill of the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company. Under the terms of the mortgage the trustee could not enter until interests on the bonds had been in default six months. As a matter of fact, the receivers were appointed seven days after interest was in default. On account of this irregularity the court is asked to decree to the company all the rentals colected by the receiver prior to April 3, 1894, amounting to $400,000. In addition the receiver is charged with having taken possession of three thousand bonds, the market value of which is now $1,500,000. It is claimed the mortgage does not cover these bonds. On the other hand, the bond holders, the receivers and the trustee, assert that the mortgage covers everything; that the rentals are not exempt and that the trustee had a right to begin foreclosure proceedings when he did. The court recognized that act and the company at that time did not object. Arguments are still in progress in the United States Circuit Court before Judge

Local railway men who know the methods of Chicago roads in "hogging" business by secretly shading rates will enjoy the following dispatch sent out from Chicago by the Associated Press last night: "Chicago roads which are members of the Joint Traffic Association are making a great clamor over give them relief against rate cutters. Owing to this failure they are losing traffic right and left every day in the week. This less already amounts to many thousands of tons. The longer it continues the harder will be for the roads to recover the traffic which is being giverted to round-about routes, not members of the association. The board of managers has not been allowed to remain in ignorance of the condition of affairs, but it contines inactive. It seems to have set its face like steel against cut rates. In consequence of its disregard of the interests of the roads, many of them are hreatening to ignore its existence and to take independent action. That would be equivalent to the disruption of the association. Predictions are now freely made that it will never live to celebrate the first anniversary of its organization.

at Akron, O., yesterday, by Receiver and Master Commmissioner John Todd, of Cleveland, under order of the courts of Summit county, Ohio, Crawford county, Pennsylvania, and Chautauqua county, New York. The sale was made at the courthouse in Akron. As soon as bids were asked for attorney H. B. Turner, of New York, stepped forward and offered $10,000,000, the Animum price set by the courts. The bid was immediately accepted and the road de-clared sold. Mr. Turner made the purchase in the names of Roswell G. Ralston and C. C. Mason, who in turn are a committee appointed by the first mortgage bondholders. As soon as the deeds are filed the road will be transferred to the newly organized Erie Railway Company. A certified check for $100,000 was paid by attorney Turner to Commissioner Todd. The N. P. & O. extends from Salamanca, N. to Dayton, O. It was completed in 1864 and has been operated by the Erie since 1881.

J. W. Sherwood's New Position. Joseph W. Sherwood yesterday accepted the position of division superintendent of the Toledo, St. Louis & Kansas City, with headquarters at Frankfort, Ind., succeeding H. A. Boomer, resigned. Alleged Cut in Rates.

A meeting of Chicago lines was held yesterday to investigate an alleged cut of $7.50 in California rates. This cut is advertised in an agricultural paper, the owner of which controls a large section of California lands which be wants to sell out to new settlers. He offers the cut rate to any one who will go out and settle on his land. The efforts of the meeting were directed to the discovery of the road over which he is ticketing his clients. They failed. Each road for itself vehemently denied having any contract or deal of any kind whatever with the advertisement in question.

The Louisville & Nashville, the Southern railway and the Plant system now have very active representatives in Indiana, looking for parties to form colonies and go South. The large number that have gone to Fitzgerald and other colonies in the South have brought considerable revenue to the roads named. One of the passenger men says that in the last four months over eight thousand people have been carried South in these colonies.

There is considerable speculation in rail road circles as to who is furnishing the money to improve the Indiana & Illinois Southern. That it is done in the interest of some stronger line is apparent. A few months ago it was understood that the Louisville, New Albany & Chicago wanted the property, and, in fact, W. H. McDoel, vice president and general manager, in spected the road, but it is understood that his report was so unfavorable that the matter was dropped

The Chicago Tribune is fighting the Joint Traffic Association, and goes so far as to say The N. Y., P. & O. railroad was sold | it is responsible for the large falling off in east-bound business the last two weeks. Freight officials, however, do not hold such an opinion. They say it is on account of the bad roads. East-bound business out of St. Louis is proportionately as light as at Chicago and Peoria. The Teledo, St. Louis & Kansas City and the Louisville. Evansville & St. Louis are not members of the association, and are getting all the business they can, but are by no means carrying the tonnage of last month.

He also held that these stockholders were not creditors of the corporation or lien holders.

GOVERNMENT OWES SAMUEL MILLI-KEN FOR CARRYING MAIL IN 1861.

Heirs Will Seek to Collect - Sanity Experts in the Rooker Case.

Samuel Milliken, jr., filed a petition in the Probate Court yesterday asking that the Marion Trust Company be appointed administrator of the estate of his father, Samuel Milliken, sr. The heirs of the elder Milliken have recently discovered that they have a claim against the government, and they ask that the appointment be made so that the matter can be settled up. In 1861 Samuel Milliken, sr., lived in Kentucky. For years prior to the breaking out of the war he carthe Order of Railway Telegraphers, who | ried a mail route between Paducah, Ky., and luka, Miss. At heart he was loyal to the Union, and when the strife began in earnest he openly declared his sentiments. The feeling against him was so bitter among his old neighbors that he was compelled to abandon his route, and without trying to get what was due him from the government he fled North. He died in 1867 without having claimed the remainder of his salary as an employe of the government. Some time ago Samuel Milliken, jr., learned that the books in the office of the Second Assistant Posts, held in New York yesterday, it was master-general showed a balance due his father of $907. He was advised by attorneys to have a trust company appointed for the purpose of filing with the government the claim of the heirs.

ARGUMENT TO BEGIN TO-DAY. P. H. Blue, general manager of the In-

End in Sight to the Long-Drawn-Out Rooker Case.

The argument was not reached in the Rooker murder case yesterday as the attorneys had expected. Dr. P. H. Jameson was put on the stand as an expert witness by the State early in the day and did not get through until the middle of the afternoon. Dr. Jameson, after listening to the long hypothetical question, concluded that Rooker was sane. The defense tried to get in the hypothetical question propounded to Dr. Jameson in the famous Azman case, but the court would not admit it. It was the purose of the defense to show that in the Azman case Dr. Jameson declared that every that in all of his experience he had never known of an insane person who attempted suicide after having committed a murder. Neither had he read of such a On cross-examination the physiwas asked if he say in the Azman case that jealousy might produce insanity. He replied that extreme jealousy, when delusionary, might cause insantiy. The witnes denied that he had been reading up on moral insanity since the Rooker case began. Attorney Kealing asked:

"Doctor, did you not call on Dr. Ferguson and ask him what moral insanity was?" Dr. Jameson replied that he had called at Dr. Ferguson's office and asked him about a book on degeneration. Nothing was said about moral insanity. The witness based his belief that Rooker was sane on the fact that the accused went about the tragedy in a rational way and had a motive for doing the deed. MONEY CAUSED THEIR TROUBLE. Sum Disappeared and Each Distrusted the Other.

Mary E. Walton was granted a divorce from Thomas E. Walton yesterday in the Superior Court. The evidence was heard in Room 2 several weeks ago. It was money that came between the Waltons. The plaintiff was a dressmaker and Walton a poultry dealer when they were married. Each brought the other $500, and it was decided to buy property. A location was selected at Anderson, and Walton was to start one morning to invest the $1,000 in Anderson real estate. The night before he was to leave the money disappeared. Mrs. Walton accused her husband of getting away with the sum. and he accused her of extracting it from his pocket. The money never turned up, and the incident caused each to distrust the other. They separated, and the wife finally applied for the divorce which was granted.

The Gas Rates Snits.

City Attorney Curtis has decided that the best way to comply with the recent Council resolution to inquire into the charges that the gas companies were not complying with the ordinance as to rates, is to assist in some of the cases that are occasionally being filed againt the companies to collect overcharges. He will enter into a few of these cases for the purpose of taking them to a higher court and having some of the important phases of the matter settled. He says it is not the intention to attempt to fight all the suits that may be filed but simply to select a few so as to get decisions that will control in the future.

Ten Inches Not Their Own.

Henry M. Talbott and George A. Dickson brought suit for damages yesterday against Sarah A. Kinder, who formerly owned the ground now occupied by the Dickson & Tal-bott Arcade. The plaintiffs aver that when they bought the ground the defendant gave them a warranty deed to ten inches of real estate which she did not own. This strip of ground, the plaintiffs say, is held by James Johnson and Catharine J. Holmes. Damages in the sum of $1,000 are asked.

told a story, which refers to Sir John Macdonald, once Premier of Canada. Si John attended a dinner and partook of too much wine. A stenographer was sent to take his speech for a local paper. Sir John made a wandering speech, and when the stenographer turned it in at the newspaper office the editor said that Sir John had never made such a speech. He instructed the stenographer to take it, and show it to Sir John. He did as ordered. The Premier said tersely: "Tear that up." Then he added: "Now, I will tell what I did say." He had recovered from the festivities of the night, and when he had delivered his speech he turned to the stenographer and said dryly: "You're a young man, and on the threshold of life. Let me give you some advice. Never try to report a statesman when your're drunk." Mr. Carnegie having delivered himself of this story gazed quietly at the reporter, who made no further at-tempt to ascertain his views.

CABINET ROUTINE.

How the Business of the President's Advisers Is Conducted. Benjamin Harrison, in Ladies' Home Jour-

In all important matters the President is consulted by all the Secretaries. He is responsible for all executive action, and everything that is out of the routine receives his attention. Every important foreign comolication is usually discussed with him, and the diplomatic note receives his approval. The same thing is true of each of the de partments. Routine matters proceed without the knowledge or interference of the President; but if any matter of major importance arises the Secretary presents it for the consideration and advice of the President. Only matters of great and general importance affecting the general policy of the administration are discussed in the Cabinet meetings-according to my experience-and votes are of rare occurrence. Any Secretary desiring to have an expression upon any question in his department presents it, and it is discussed; but usually questions are settled in conference between the President and the head of the particuar department. If there is that respect and confidence that should prevail between consultation is one on equal terms, and the conclusion is one that both support. There should be no question of making a "mere clerk" of the Cabinet officer; there is a yielding of views, now on one side, now on the other; but it must, of course, follow that when the President has views that he feels he cannot yield, those views must prevail, for the responsioning is his, both in a constitutional and popular sense. The Cabinet officer is a valued adviser, and it loes not often happen that his views and those of the President cannot be reconciled. My habit was to give an afternoor to each Cabinet officer, on a fixed day of the week. These meetings were chiefly given up to the consideration of appointments, but if any other matters were pend ing, and deemed by the Secretary of suffititled to the credit if his department is well administered, for most things he transacts on his own responsibility. The labors of a Cabinet officer are incessant and full of responsibility. His time is largely taken up with calls, and, like the President, he must, out of such fragments of time as he can secure, manage to study and decide the mportant questions that are daily presented to him.

MOTHERS MUST GUIDE. Should Watch the Physical De velopment of Their Daughters. Information They Should Furnish at the Proper Time-Knowledge by Which Suffering May Be Avoided.

Every mother possesses information of vital value to her young daughter. When the girl's thoughts become for solitude, and a dislike to the society of children: when she a mystery to herself and friends, then, her mother should come to her aid. Ladia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will, at this time, prepare the system for the coming change. See that she has it, and Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., will cheerfully answer any letters where information is de sired. Thousands of women owe their health to her and the Vegetable Com pound, and mothers are constantly applying to her for advice regarding their daughters.
